quality time
makes the difference

www.QT30DE.com

“When an adult spends thirty minutes of quality time with a baby or young child each day, they are giving that child an extraordinary head start on life, in terms of health and well-being, educational attainment and social success. It’s super simple...and, it works!”

QT 30

It stands for spending 30 minutes of Quality Time every day with a child in your life.

This is one of the best things adults can do to help children grow up to be their best!

Quality time is easy to understand. It means attention is 100% on your child. They can look into your eyes, and you into theirs. You are doing something together. You are touching, playing, interacting.

Quality time is simple to give. It's cuddling. It's talking and smiling together. It's pat-a-cake and other simple games. It's breastfeeding, and singing and a whole lot more.

This Guide shares 160 daily quality time activities. There are some for infants and toddlers, and some for older kids. Do one each day for three months, and then start over. You've got a full year of fun ahead!

Delaware Early Learning Foundations

Some activities in this book are marked with a gold star. They are some of the evidence-based early learning foundations set by the Delaware Department of Education. All children are learners and all children learn through play. These activities give your child a head start on their education!

WHY ARE YOUR CHILD'S EARLY YEARS SO IMPORTANT?

Happy and healthy lives start early. How your children do in school, how they behave, even how they do in life takes shape in the earliest years. Thankfully, it is easy to give your child a healthy start with quality time!

The First Three Years

The first three years (1000 days) of a child's life are a period of super-fast changes in their bodies, their brains, and their emotions.

In that time, children go from at rest, non-speaking babies to walking, talking toddlers.

A child's growth in this short period of time is amazing. Their bodies, minds, and feelings are getting ready for the life they will live.

Even before they walk or talk, babies learn by what they see, hear, and feel. That's where quality time comes in!

Ages Four to Eight

These are the wonder years when children's personalities take shape and they become more independent. The quality time you spend helps them to do better in school, get along with others, and have confidence in themselves as they grow up.

4-8 Kitchen & In-Home Fun

No Cook Play-Dough

Ask your child to help you make play-dough. It'll feel a lot like cooking. Get $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of salt, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of water, 1 cup of flour, and non-toxic food dye. Mix the ingredients together in a bowl. Squirt in the food dye and the dough is ready to play with!

About the QT 30 Campaign and Delaware Early Learning Foundations

The “30 Minutes of Quality Time” or “QT 30” campaign was created by the Delaware Help Me Grow Advisory Committee, with support from the Delaware Division of Public Health.

The goal is to help every child have the best possible opportunity for a lifetime of well-being.

One special benefit of quality time is a child’s readiness for school. And, the more ready a child is for school, the better they do.

The Delaware Department of Education has shared what it calls early learning foundations.

Simply, these are skills a preschool child can learn that will help them succeed in school. The Department of Education has also shared a set of activities that help early childhood educators and others teach these early learning skills.

Some of these early learning activities are shared through the QT 30 campaign with thanks to the Department of Education.
