

One week, countless ways to help and support Black and Brown mothers on their breastfeeding journeys.

In just one week, you will learn how we can further reduce infant mortality by eliminating disparities in breastfeeding, as well as reduce the risk of sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS), commonly referred to as sudden unexplained infant death (SUID); upper-respiratory infections; and childhood obesity. It all starts by empowering our Black and Brown mothers.

Save the Date for Black
Breastfeeding Week,
August 25-31.

Visit DEThrives.com/BlackBreastfeeding
for events and more information.

